WORLD HISTORY - 301

Pre-requisite: None
Duration: Full Year
Credits: 1.0

This course is a broad survey of Human history from a global perspective. The students examine the cultural, political, economic, and technological developments of each region, from the dawn of civilization to the present day. These topics are explored both chronologically and topically. Particular emphasis is placed on the rise of ancient civilizations and their influence on the modern world. The students study the classical civilizations of Mesopotamia, Egypt, China, Greece, Rome and India. The course continues through the decline of the ancient civilizations and the rise of the European empires, Industrialization, the World Wars, America's expanding global role, the Cold War, and the Information Revolution.
